1. Two or three 4-foot direction markers will be planted either in the top of the fence, clear of the top level, or in the hurdle facing the oncoming horses, exactly opposite (or as close as practically possible) to the central position of any obstruction on the take-off or landing side, whether it be an injured horse or rider, a damaged or flattened hurdle or any essential equipment of the first aid organisation dealing with such horse or rider. The direction markers will denote around which side the obstacle is to be bypassed.

2. Either one or two Fence Attendants will also stand in a prominent position down the course, but on the opposite side to which the obstacle is to be bypassed, and:

i) blow a Fox 40 whistle, and;

ii) wave a black and white chequered flag to indicate the presence of a hazard ahead.

The position taken by the Fence Attendant(s) will be approximately 70 yards ahead of the obstacle.
